ACTO Conference

- Association of Coach Training Organizations (ACTO)
- ACTOonline.org

George and I just attended the ACTO conference in Phoenix Arizona.

If you do not know who ACTO is, they are an Association of Coach Training Organizations and they are an organization that supports and upholds the standards of coaching education. This conference is a great way to connect with coach training providers and discuss the future of coach training. For more information, please visit ACTOonline.org

The conference this year had a lot of great speakers and topics. George and I had a lot of good conversations with the coach training schools represented, and came home with several ideas to think about and improve the Accreditation process. We will be discussing one of these ideas a little later in our call today.

In attending this conference and speaking with the training organizations there, I wanted to make sure that everyone is aware of the ICF Code of Conduct for approved and accredited coach training providers. This Code of Conduct will be a good reference for all training providers to ensure that you are operating (curriculum or marketing) within the ICF standards.

You can access the Code of Conduct by going to the ICF website, hovering over program accreditation and selecting Code of Conduct.

Update

- New tutorial videos have been posted to the ICF website.
 - Five Helpful Tips for Choosing a Coach Training Program
 - How to Determine which Associate Certified Coach (ACC) Application Path to Follow
 - How to Determine which Professional Certified Coach (PCC) Application Path to Follow
 - Information about the Coach Knowledge Assessment (CKA)
 - How to update your Credential Coach Finder (CCF) Listing

These videos were created to help assist website visitors in navigating the ICF website and the credentialing process.

You can view these videos by going to our website, individual credential and clicking on Video Tutorial Library. You can also find these videos under the ACC or PCC section of the website as well.

Discussion

- If we were to create a new training program search service, what features or functionality would you like to see?

As I mentioned, after attending the conference last week, one of the things that I took away was that the TPSS is a pain point for a lot of training providers and coaches looking for training. So, my question to you is...

You do not need to provide an answer to this question now but I would love to have feedback and suggestions regarding this service that we provide. If you have a request or a suggestion pertaining to the training program search service, please raise your hand or provide that suggestion in the questions panel. Otherwise, please think about this question and what your "wish list" might be, and let me know what you come up with by calling me 859-425-5030 or sending me an email at support@coachfederation.org
