To our Lutheran customers:

In October 1999, the historic signing of the Concordat between the Roman Catholic Church and several Lutheran church bodies reminded us again of the common heritage which many denominations share, and of the desire to work toward even greater cooperation in the future. Today, as in the past, it seems as though the church is always undergoing a process of reformation. The past twenty-five years have seen many worshiping communities search for meaningful and useful ways to worship. The task of doing worship has never been more challenging or more interesting than it is today.

GIA offers an incredible diversity of resources for worship and music—from choral works of the old masters to modern settings of the psalms, from Gregorian chant to contemporary instrumental works, from hymn concertato settings to gospel-style music. GIA vigorously promotes hymnody, and in fact, supports, encourages, and publishes the work of a number of active text and tune writers. The music of Taizé and the Iona Community are fast becoming discovered as useful tools for spiritual living and meditation, and are finding their way into many liturgical churches.

Please read this catalog, in which we highlight a variety of works, many by Lutheran composers, and many that are currently in use by thousands of Lutheran congregations.

Check out our web site at <http://www.giamusic.com>, where our new search engine can help you find the music that suits your needs. After you've located specific titles, we are happy to send single copies on approval. Simply return unwanted titles and pay only for what you keep plus shipping.

New from Marty Haugen in Celebration of the Jubilee Year...

The Soli Deo Gloria Collection

A service for all Christians...

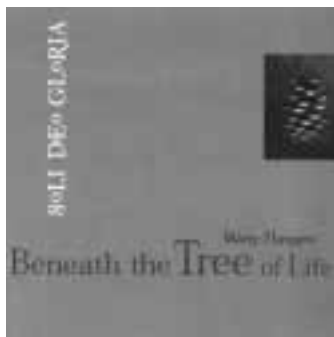

Beneath the Tree of Life Marty Haugen

In honor of the jubilee year, Marty Haugen has created this communion service to celebrate the common heritage among all Christians. Beneath the Tree of Life reflects on both the unity and the diversity of different Christian traditions and is designed to be used by all denominations.

The three printed versions will accommodate variations in the eucharistic rites with a Roman Catholic edition, a Lutheran/Episcopalian edition, and a General Protestant edition.

Many of the songs in this collection are dedicated to personal mentors in Marty’s life, including well-known professor of music Weston Noble, while “Beneath the Tree of Life” was commissioned by the Diocese of New Ulm, Minnesota, as part of a jubilee gathering rite.

Contents: Beneath the Tree of Life/Kyrie • Glory to God • Springs of Water • Gospel Alleluia • God Is a Good God (G-5112/1.00) • Come, Let Us Bring • A Jubilee Great Thanksgiving • Lamb of God • Within the Reign of God (G-4963/1.20) • Soli Deo Gloria (G-5176/1.40) • Pilgrim’s Song (Psalm 121).

German Mass

Franz Peter Schubert

Adapted to ICET and ICEL texts by Richard Proulx

Schubert wrote this setting to the texts of Johann Phillip Neumann in 1826. The mass, with its practical Austrian "folk-style," was intended for use by the student congregation at the Vienna Polytechnical Institute. The original version consisted of eight movements (Mass-Songs), with the Lord's Prayer being added some months later. Although technically easy, this music is unmistakably Schubert's and displays all the melodic grace associated with his 606 songs! This edition uses five of the nine Mass-Songs.

Hymn Resources

Excellent resources for parish worship leaders, hymnal editors and composers seeking new texts!

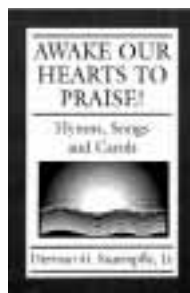

The Hymns of Herman Stuempfle

Awake Our Hearts to Praise! (New!)

Awake Our Hearts to Praise makes available 75 more hymn texts by Herman Stuempfle, Jr. Together with the 150 texts from his earlier volumes, The Word Goes Forth and Redeeming the Time, this new collection provides a variety of resources for worship leaders, church musicians, hymnal editors, and tune writers.

Solid Biblical theology, lyrical poetry, and careful craftsmanship characterize this master hymnwriter's work. Having emerged as one of the leading hymn text authors of our day, many of Dr. Stuempfle's hymns are finding their way into new hymnals.

The text given below is an example of the breadth and timeliness of Dr. Stuempfle's texts.

Sing of Dietrich, Fearless Prophet

Meter: 8 7 8 7 D

DIETRICH BONHOEFFER

Sing of Dietrich, fearless prophet
in his country's wilderness.
Tyrant's threat and prison's torture could not shake his faithfulness.
Bold confessor, martyred witness,
speaking truth through pain and loss, those, he taught, who follow Jesus must prepare to bear the cross.

MARTIN LUTHER KING, JR.

Sing of Martin, marching boldly where his people bore the weight laid upon them by oppressors, felt the lash of pride and hate.
Praise for faith that love will triumph over evil's heart and hand through the lives the people offer on the altar of this land!

MOTHER THERESA

Sing of her whose name, Theresa, like a beacon in the night,
signaled hope among the hopeless,
shone with love's bright, healing light.
Where they lay forgotten, dying,
where the world had closed its door,
she, with selfless, warm compassion, served the poorest of the poor.

ALL THE FAITHFUL

Sing of saints obscure, unhaloed, saints whom history will not name,
who, where daily duty calls them,
meet their Lord, accept his claim.
Home and workplace are the temples where they serve him all their days.
There the towel and there the basin;
there each deed a hymn of praise!

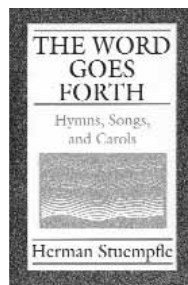

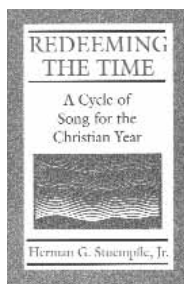

Redeeming the Time

A Cycle of Song for the Church Year

*Lord, grant us grace to know the time of action or of prayer, which hour to crowd with waiting work
and which with you to share.*

This stanza is from one of the 75 texts found in this new collection, which provides hymns for a wide variety of lectionary readings and liturgical days. Characterized by modern language and solid theology, Dr. Stuempfle's texts enable us to sing the words of faith on many occasions for which no hymn texts have been previously available.

Texts are printed poetically and interlined with an appropriate tune (many familiar) on the facing page.

Common Hymnsense

Madeleine Forell Marshall

This insightful book by Madeleine Forell Marshall focuses a critical eye on an important aspect of hymns that is so easily taken for granted: Hymns are, first of all, poetry.

Analyzing both the familiar and the relatively obscure, Marshall mindfully navigates us through the nebulous passages of thirty-six texts. These have been selected from the five contemporary hymnals of Lutherans, Episcopalians, Catholics, Methodists, and Presbyterians. All but one of the selections are common to at least three of these collections.

In the end, the book makes possible reading and singing even the most familiar of hymns anew. A must for music directors, preachers, homilists, poets, composers, and singers.

Five suites of early American hymns in new settings for a cappella mixed chorus

As modes of worship developed in early America, so too did their song. With Sweet Manna, gifted composer, conductor, and teacher Alice Parker gives us a glimpse into the past with new settings of early American shaped-note songs found in songbooks published between 1790 and 1830.

There Is One among Us

Iona Community/Wild Goose Worship Group

Following the success of Come All You People, John Bell and the Iona Community present a second collection of shorter songs for worship. The songs of There Is One among Us help us to strengthen our prayer by allowing everyone in an assembly or crowd to sing short, easy-to-learn pieces in harmony without accompaniment.

Accompanying each song is an indication of how it may be used in creative liturgy. Also, the book concludes with a number of prayers that may be used in conjunction with the songs.
