Credit Research Foundation Forum

Speaking Engagement

March 14, 2022 from 2:15 pm to 3:00 pm (EDT) New York

This session provided a look back at significant bankruptcy developments during 2021 and a preview of what to expect in 2022, including the impacts of moving more business to ecommerce/online. Notwithstanding the continued impact of COVID, the bankruptcy community saw the lowest level of commercial filings in over a decade. However, early indicators are that 2022 will see bankruptcy filings rise again. In addition, the seminar also provided an analysis of key legal developments impacting CRF members, including:

- The complexity of moving online and dealing with default
- Status of legislative provisions impacting creditors' rights and recoveries
- New proposed legislation that could impact the bankruptcy process, including with respect to venue reform
- Key court decisions affecting value that may be available for creditors, including with respect to third party releases, voting rights, and contract enforcement rights
