The recently sworn-in 113th Congress has already begun to tackle several of the difficult issues facing the nation. Much like the previous two years, the political landscape of Capitol Hill will be strongly influenced by the interaction between a divided Congress and a Democratic Administration beginning its second term - a dynamic that presents opportunities for both bipartisan cooperation as well as partisan gridlock on key policy initiatives.

To learn how your business practices may be affected, please join Kelley Drye & Warren LLP's Government Relations & Public Policy Practice as the group presents "A Congressional Forum: The Legislative Agenda for 2013." This is Kelley Drye's 10th annual legislative forum, and provides an opportunity for our clients and friends to hear first-hand from leading policymakers about topics that will be relevant in the months ahead, including the economic outlook, tax, international trade, health care, energy and environment, international relations, agriculture and infrastructure.
