8 THINGS WITH GONZALO MON

1. Where were you born/where did you grow up?

I was born and grew up in Northern New Jersey.

2. What did you want to be when you “grew up?”

For a while, I wanted to be an actor.

3. How are you handling working from home?

Technology has made the transition pretty seamless, and I think I’m at least as productive at home as I was in the office. Although there are some things I miss about the office, there’s a lot to be said for working from home. For example, I’ve enjoyed not having to commute, being able to take breaks with my wife and dogs, and being able to exercise more consistently. I also launched the first steel mace fitness program in DC and have enjoyed teaching those classes.

4. What music are you listening to?

I’ve been listening to a lot of live music from a broad range of artists. This week, I’ve listened to live recordings from The Rolling Stones, Otis Redding, and Bryan Adams.

5. What are you reading?

William Shakespeare’s Star Wars. No, that’s not a typo. There is a series of books that tell the Star Wars stories presented as Shakespeare plays. They’re written primarily in iambic pentameter. It’s fun to see how well Shakespeare and Star Wars synch up.

6. What’s your favorite website or online newsletter?

I’m not sure I have a favorite, but I’ve been working on some skills during the quarantine and have found YouTube to be very useful for that.

7. What’s the best thing that you’ve watched recently?

I’ve really enjoyed the Cobra Kai series on Netflix. We get to catch up with characters that we first met over 30 years ago, see how their lives have changed, and watch the same events from different points of view. It’s a good story with the right amount of nostalgia.

8. Favorite Quote!

I don’t have a favorite quote, but if I did, I’m pretty sure it would be something that John Villafranco said.
