On March 16, 2018, the U.S. Court of Appeals for the D.C. Circuit issued its long-awaited decision reviewing the FCC's 2015 TCPA Declaratory Ruling and Order. The court's decision was a significant victory for challengers to the 2015 Declaratory Ruling and Order, setting aside the FCC's clarifications of an automatic telephone dialing system (ATDS or autodialer) and its one-call safe harbor for reassigned wireless numbers. In addition, the court upheld the FCC's approach to revocation of consent and the exemption for certain "healthcare treatment" calls.

This webinar will help you assess what's next in TCPA matters after the court's decision. We will brief you on what happened and what might follow - at the FCC, in the courts, in Congress and in your compliance plans. Join the experts at Kelley Drye as we guide you through what to expect from the decision.
