Please Note: The host of the Consumer Finance Law Blog is making some technical improvements to how email notifications are sent. If you have signed up to receive email alerts, you will need to reconfirm to receive future alerts when we post new entries. Please keep your eyes open for an email inviting you to reconfirm your interest in receiving email notifications. It's as easy as clicking on the link provided in the email.

If you are not currently subscribed to receive email updates, but would like to, simply enter your email address in the field in the right-hand column of the blog home page.

Don't miss out – the Consumer Finance Law Blog continues to bring you developments and analysis of consumer financial services laws, rules, and regulations.
