

Chicago Daily Law Bulletin Features Partner Henry T. Kelly

October 2, 2012

The Chicago Daily Law Bulletin published a feature story, "Kelly Works to Build Consensus," which profiles Henry T. Kelly, the managing partner of the firm's Chicago office. In the article, Mr. Kelly discusses how the office operates by building consensus. He describes the work of the office with 40 percent handling corporate or transactional matters, 40 percent working on litigation, and the remaining 20 percent focusing on regulatory issues including telecommunications and energy law. Mr. Kelly provides an inside look at the office's management, goals and future plans.

To read the complete article, click on the link below.