About

With an in-depth understanding of the industry and a hands-on approach to the complex litigation and unique compliance issues his clients face, Cliff Katz represents pharmaceutical companies in a wide range of matters.

Cliff complements his meticulous attention to detail with a perspective that incorporates broader business concerns into individual case strategies. Able to collaborate effectively and efficiently with C-suite executives and front-line workers alike, Cliff consistently positions his pharma clients for favorable outcomes that align with their short and long-term goals.

Cliff's litigation practice includes representing clients in matters involving breach of contract, pharmaceutical pricing, antitrust, employment disputes, trade secrets, co-op and condo disputes, federal and state false claims acts, consumer protection laws, fraud, class actions, products liability, opioid-related claims, and patent litigation.

With a focus on minimizing costs and disruption without sacrificing thorough evaluation, analysis, and preparation, Cliff has earned the trust of clients who know he will always have matters well in hand.

Cliff also leverages his deep industry knowledge outside the courtroom, counseling his pharmaceutical clients on consequential transactions and strategic initiatives. His thoughtful, informed, and actionable guidance helps clients identify and address potential compliance and financial pitfalls in transactions with business partners, customers, and vendors.

His counsel extends to asset purchase agreements, customer agreements, supply agreements with CMOs and other vendors, product development agreements, profit-sharing agreements, marketing agreements, ANDA purchase agreements, confidentiality agreements, employment agreements, sale of receivables, real estate and lease disputes, Medicaid and Medicare issues, and pricing and antitrust policies.
