About

Ted Herod focuses his practice on litigation, working on commercial litigation involving antitrust claims, fraud, cryptocurrency, data breaches, trademarks, consumer-protection claims, securities agreements, and commercial contracts.

Before practicing law, Ted was a business owner with over a decade of experience in business operations, B2B relationship management, persuasive writing, and a knack for solving intricate challenges for clients and turning them into opportunities. As a founding partner and creative director of Pure Motion Pictures—a video-focused advertising company specializing in the tech, finance, and healthcare industries—Ted served the needs of startups and Fortune 500s alike by nurturing client relationships, leveraging efficiencies, and consistently delivering on the clients' goals.

Ted assists clients at all stages of litigation, including pre-litigation resolution, discovery disputes, and dispositive motions, where Ted draws from his many years of experience writing for and persuading varied audiences.

Ted was a judicial intern for The Honorable Barry T. Albin in the Supreme Court of New Jersey, The Honorable Mary Gibbons Whipple in the New Jersey Superior Court, Appellate Division, and The Honorable Madeline Cox Arleo in the U.S. District Court for the District of New Jersey, and a legal intern for the United States Attorney's Office for the District of New Jersey.

Pro Bono

Ted is active with the Firm's pro bono practice. Under a joint representation between Kelley Drye and the Center for Social Justice at Seton Hall Law, Ted argued before the Second Circuit on behalf of a client seeking to reverse a Social Security Administration disability benefit determination that wrongly denied our client benefits for over eighteen years. In a win for the client, the Second Circuit vacated and remanded the case.
