About

Grace Kim helps her clients understand the market forces shaping their industries and advocates on their behalf in international trade and customs matters.

Grace represents domestic industries in trade remedy proceedings, particularly antidumping and countervailing duty investigations, administrative and five-year (“sunset”) reviews, and appellate litigation. She regularly appears before the U.S. Department of Commerce, the U.S. ITC, and the U.S. Court of International Trade. She represents a range of industries, such as stainless steel flanges, aluminum foil, common alloy aluminum sheet, mattresses, fine denier polyester staple fiber, and boltless steel shelving.

An active member of the Association of Women in International Trade (WIIT), Grace serves as the co-chair of the Trade Remedies section, which examines the evolving field of trade remedies and new rules, regulations and administrative procedures. The section is particularly interested in issues regarding anti-dumping/countervailing duties, safeguards and section 337, among others.

Grace also believes in providing pro bono counsel, and she has successfully resolved immigration matters before the U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services in that capacity.

In addition to her law practice, Grace is the Executive Director of Kelley Drye’s economic consulting and data analytics subsidiary, Georgetown Economic Services (GES). Prior to joining Kelley Drye and throughout law school, Grace served as an economic consultant and international trade analyst with GES.

Experience

Represented the U.S. specialty steel industry (including stainless sheet and strip, stainless steel plate, stainless steel bar and stainless steel wire rod) in several antidumping, countervailing duty and safeguards proceedings involving numerous countries before the U.S. Department of Commerce and ITC.

Represented U.S. manufacturers of carbon steel products, brass sheet and strip, iron construction castings, polyester staple fiber, PET resin, stainless steel butt-weld pipe fittings and pre-stressed concrete steel wire strand in antidumping and countervailing duty cases and sunset reviews against imports from multiple countries.

Represented producers of fresh garlic, canned mushrooms, honey, pasta and fresh Atlantic Salmon in several sunset reviews conducted by the U.S. Department of Commerce and ITC.

Assisted in drafting an amicus brief to the U.S. Supreme Court on behalf of the Committee to Support U.S. Trade Laws in a successful appeal of a U.S. Department of Commerce antidumping determination.

Assisted in the representation of the PET Resin Coalition in Generalized System of Preferences (GSP) annual reviews at the Office of the U.S. Trade Representative.

Counsels domestic companies regarding NAFTA and other customs and international trade matters.

Represents U.S. trade associations seeking Export Trade Certificates of Review from the Department of Commerce and the Department of Justice, which provide antitrust immunity to association members in connection with export-related activities.
