Partner, Laura VanDruff will moderate "How the U.S. Supreme Court's Rejection of Chevron Deference Affects Federal and State Consumer Protection Agencies" at the National Association of Attorneys General 2024 Consumer Protection Fall Conference. This moderated discussion will focus on the potential fallout for consumer protection actions in the wake of the Loper Bright decision. Topics explored will include the impact on federal and state consumer protection agencies in particular and what impact, if any, the decision will have on business and the work of attorneys general as consumer protection enforcers and advocates.
