About

Ian Sebastian Gall advises clients on complex commercial real estate financings. He is known for having a pragmatic, business-first approach that balances legal precision with execution and a sharp understanding of market realities and deal dynamics.

Ian Sebastian has over a decade of experience representing institutional lenders, banks, private equity investors, and loan servicers nationwide. His current practice focuses on permanent and bridge loans, mezzanine and subordinate debt, construction loans, and co-lender arrangements.

Before joining Kelley Drye, Ian Sebastian practiced at several major international firms, handling billion-dollar financings and joint ventures across mixed-use developments, healthcare facilities, and condominium projects. His experience informs his life-cycle perspective—from capital formation and JV alignment to financing, development, recapitalization, and disposition.
