

Implementing Net Neutrality

October 21, 2011

The Federal Communications Commission adopted the new Open Internet/Net Neutrality regulations on December 23, 2010, which will go into effect on November 20, 2011. These regulations place restrictions on certain providers of broadband Internet access. To listen to Steve Augustino's view on the implementation of the FCC's new Open Internet regulations, please view the Lexblog Network TV interview below. In the interview, Steve addresses the most impactful parts of the new net neutrality regulations, the complaints surrounding the disclosure requirements, and how they will be addressed in the future.