

India Business Law Journal Lists Kelley Drye as Leading Foreign Law Firm

July 9, 2014

Kelley Drye has been selected once again by The India Business Law Journal as one of the top international law firms for India related work.

Kelley Drye's India Practice represents Indian businesses in their U.S. dealings and U.S. companies in their Indian business activities. The practice has been recognized as a "significant player" in the journal's ranking which showcases India-related achievements and activities of law firms around the world. The journal notes that Kelley Drye has a healthy roster of clients with interests in India, quoting a Kelley Drye client saying, "we chose to work with Kelley Drye because they are reliable, dependable and proactive and their partner Deepak Nambiar is someone who we trust."

The IBLJ survey compared more than 600 law firms from every continent that recorded transactions or cases with an Indian connection over the past 12 months.
