About

Complementing formidable advocacy skills with well-honed case management abilities, Jaclyn Metzinger provides robust and effective defense representation in complex consumer class actions, false advertising claims, employment matters, and a wide range of other commercial and civil litigation cases in state and federal courts.

Her aptitude for seeing the broad landscape and business implications of sprawling class actions while delving deep into each case's details has helped Jaclyn amass an impressive track record of positive results.

A New York Metro Super Lawyers "Rising Star," Jaclyn leads and serves on litigation teams defending claims with hundreds of millions of dollars at stake. Her ability to quarterback large, multidimensional, and multi-district litigation facilitates the development and implementation of case strategies designed to protect her clients' financial, reputational, and strategic interests.

Much of Jaclyn's practice includes large class action suits, where she is involved in all phases of case preparation and management, ranging from pre-certification motion practice and discovery to class certification motions, expert discovery, hearings, and trial.

Jaclyn strives to identify and mitigate potential exposure to class action claims and other multi-claimant proceedings. On many occasions, she has helped obtain early dismissals and denials of class certification. Her clients span a broad spectrum of industries, including those in the food and beverage, dietary supplement, and personal care and cosmetics sectors.

Jaclyn also leverages her experience with consumer claims to defend clients in investigations and enforcement proceedings by the FTC and State AGs. She also assists clients in commercial litigation, life insurance disputes, and employment matters.

For six years, Jaclyn acted as co-chair of Women At KDW, an affinity group dedicated to enhancing the professional development of women attorneys at the firm. She organized quarterly training, networking, business development, and community service events for women attorneys both in the New York office and across the firm.

Jaclyn also maintains an active pro bono practice, including matters involving election and voting rights, prisoner's rights, reproductive health care issues, and family law disputes.

Experience

Consumer Class Action and False Advertising

Currently defending a dietary supplement company in an enforcement action brought by the Federal Trade Commission and the New York Attorney General's office. Jaclyn also defended six tag-along class actions filed across the country making similar allegations. One such class action alleging violations of California's Unfair Competition Law and Consumer Legal Remedies Act was tried to a jury in the Northern District of California and, after three days of deliberation, the jury advised the Court that it was deadlocked. After a mistrial was declared, the Court granted the defendants' motion to de-certify the class and the case was voluntarily dismissed. See Racies v. Quincy Bioscience, LLC, 2020 WL 2113852 (N.D. Cal. 2020). Obtained a favorable resolution of all six class actions after the Racies matter was dismissed.

Successfully defended a multinational consumer goods company against a false advertising class action in the Southern District of New York alleging that the company falsely markets certain personal care products as "hypoallergenic" and "tear-free." Kelley Drye prevailed on the plaintiffs' motion to dismiss on grounds of standing, personal jurisdiction, and failure to plead, and subsequently defeated the plaintiffs' motion for leave to re-plead. See Wiggins v. Unilever U.S., Inc., 684 F. Supp. 3d 127 (S.D.N.Y. 2023).

Represented an infant nutrition company in a lawsuit filed by the FTC alleging that infant formula advertising claims violated Section 5 of the Federal Trade Commission Act, and reached a favorable resolution without any payment from the company. Jaclyn has also defended the company in six "piggy back" class actions alleging breach of warranty, intentional and negligent misrepresentation, unjust enrichment, and violation of various state consumer fraud and false advertising statutes. In one such action, Kelley Drye obtained summary judgment and decertification of a class of California consumers on the grounds that the named plaintiff failed to prove individual or class-wide damages. The decision was affirmed by the Ninth Circuit. See Oula Zakaria v. Gerber Products Co., 2017 WL 9512589 (C.D. Cal. 2017); aff'd 755 Fed. App'x 623 (9th Cir. 2018).
