

Kelley Drye Featured in Communications Daily Article on CPRA

September 29, 2021

A blog post by Kelley Drye's Laura Riposo VanDruff, Aaron Burstein, Alysa Hutnik & Alexander Schneider regarding preliminary rulemaking for the California Privacy Rights Act (CPRA), was quoted in a Communications Daily article discussing the potential introduction of a privacy bill in Ohio. The Kelley Drye blog noted that "The CPRA puts thornier issues into play for rulemaking: assessing risks to consumer privacy, standards for using automated decisionmaking, limiting uses of sensitive personal information, and further defining what it means to 'combine' consumer personal information."

You can read the full article here. (may need subscription)