

Kelley Drye, Jackson Gilmour & Dobbs Merger Featured in National Publications

December 1, 2016

The recent merger between Kelley Drye and Jackson Gilmour & Dobbs, PC was featured in several national publications. The merger gives Kelley Drye an office in Houston, Texas and expands the firm's number of offices from seven to eight. New partner William J. Jackson will co-chair the environmental law practice along with partner William M. Guerry Jr. Bill will also be the managing partner of the Texas office. New partner John D.S. Gilmour will chair the firm's newly formed environmental litigation practice. Mr. Jackson noted that, "We built a name as an experienced, dynamic team committed to exemplary service. Kelley Drye's stellar reputation and national footprint will enhance the service we provide our clients."

Please see below for a list of articles featuring the merger.

Texas environmental law firm merges with Kelley Drye (ABA Journal)

Houston environmental law firm acquired by New York firm (Houston Business Journal)

New York law firm plants flag in Houston (Houston Chronicle)

Kelley Drye & Warren acquires Houston environmental law firm (New York Business Journal)

Kelley Drye Enters Texas With Acquisition of 14-Lawyer Boutique (Texas Lawyer)

Environmental law firm with Austin office acquired by New York firm (Austin Business Journal)

Kelley Drye Warren acquires Houston environmental law firm (Dallas Sun)