

Kelley Drye Listed in Legal Aid Society's 2010 Pro Bono Honor Roll

November 4, 2010

Kelley Drye has been recognized for its outstanding pro bono commitment to The Legal Aid Society and its clients. The non-profit organization listed 48 New York law firms in its 2010 Pro Bono Honor Roll. Over the last 134 years, law firms have provided pro bono representation and supported the work of the Society in delivering legal assistance to the most vulnerable New Yorkers, including elderly people, children and adults with disabilities, survivors of domestic violence, immigrants, low-wage workers, people living with AIDS/HIV, homeless children and adults, inmates and prisoners. In addition to volunteering pro bono legal work, Kelley Drye is proud to be one of the 54 Sustaining Law Firms of The Legal Aid Society.
