

Kelley Drye's Alysa Hutnik Cited in Digiday

February 17, 2021

Kelley Drye partner and chair of the Privacy and Security practice, Alysa Hutnik, was quoted in Digiday article on the boundaries of California's new privacy law. The privacy law — which allows California residents to regulate companies' ability to sell their personal information — has been ambiguous, so people have turned to the courts for clarity. "Plaintiffs are trying to pressure-test all possible avenues," said Alysa Hutnik.
