December 9, 2020

Kelley Drye's International Trade practice group has been honored by Law360 as a trade group of the year for 2020.

The award notes the firm's "success in obtaining trade protections for a broad cross-section of domestic manufacturers."

Partner Alan Luberda, who chairs the practice, notes that a lot of the success is due to the collaborative aspect that is used. "When we're working on trade cases, we have teams that have partners, associates, economists and paralegals. We're very team-oriented, not very hierarchical, and so it's pretty seamless," Luberda said. "I've got economists who can write like lawyers and lawyers who can think like economists."
