

Managing a Different Kind of Risk: Departing Employees and Intellectual Property

Connecticut Law Tribune's CLE seminar

Speaking Engagement

November 10, 2010

New York

Partners Robert I. Steiner and David I. Zalman spoke at Connecticut Law Tribune's full day CLE seminar in Stamford on November 10th. Their session was titled "Managing a Different Kind of Risk: Departing Employees and Intellectual Property," and focused on the protections offered to employers by trade secrets and unfair competition laws when an employee goes to work for a competitor. The seminar was for in-house counsel only.

Related Services

Litigation