

New Jersey Law Journal Reports on Kelley Drye as Counsel to P.C. Richard in Truth in Consumer Contract, Warranty and Notice Act

June 23, 2016

New Jersey Law Journal reports on the dismissal of a class action law suit brought against P.C. Richard in a case alleging violations of the TCCWNA. The Journal notes that plaintiffs' lawyers in New Jersey have filed plenty of suits based on the TCCWNA as of late, but a federal judge in Newark dismissed a suit against appliance retailer P.C. Richard & Son by a consumer who claimed the company failed to disclose a seller's obligations in case the delivery of furniture is delayed stating that the 35-year-old statute does not provide relief in cases of language omitted from a contract.
