

Nick Panarella Serves as Practicing Attorney for Law Students (PALS) Panelist

December 3, 2007

Partner Nick Panarella was one of four panelists who participated in a recent PALS skills workshop panel titled: "Demonstrating Your Value During Performance Evaluations." The workshop targeted junior attorneys of color who want to learn how to maximize the quality and frequency of their feedback opportunities while also showcasing their skills and development to the people who need to know.

Practicing Attorneys for Law Students ("PALS") is a program designed to assist minorities entering the legal profession. PALS offers mentoring and career guidance services to minority law students attending 13 law schools located in the New York City metropolitan area and is a 501(c)(3), not-for-profit organization. Kelley Drye is proud to be a PALS law firm partner.
