March 10, 2011

Chinese News quoted partner Gonzalo E. Mon in the article, "Mobile Content Scams: Who is to Blame?" The article discussed the growth of mobile content in the wireless industry, and the potential for scams to follow. In 2009, the Attorney General of Florida announced his office had reached an agreement resulting in millions of dollars of refunds to two wireless companies' consumers for third-party charges on their cell phone bills, after the investigation revealed that thousands of consumers were charged for mobile content that they did not knowingly purchase.

"The Attorney General in Florida, who was unable to go after each and every one of the many companies that were engaged in similar practices, decided to challenge the two wireless companies by putting pressure on them," said Mr. Mon.
