

Paul Rosenthal Selected as One of the Top Ten International Trade Lawyers in the Country

September 27, 2005

Washington, DC – Paul Rosenthal, Managing Partner of Kelley Drye's Washington, D.C. office, has been selected as one of the top ten international trade lawyers in America by Lawdragon. Kelley Drye comprises twenty percent of the international trade lawyers on the Lawdragon's list of the 500 leading lawyers in the country.

The Lawdragon 500 is based on information solicited from clients, judges, and attorneys across geographic and practice area divisions based upon a scoring system that measures quality, service, and expertise.

Lawdragon described Mr. Rosenthal as "hard to find a better petitioner-side lawyer in international trade than this firm chairman."

"It's an honor to be selected among such a prestigious group of lawyers. I am flattered that our clients and our peers have recognized our work in international trade law," said Paul Rosenthal.

Lawdragon is an online searchable database where would-be clients of legal services can obtain recommendations and quality-of-service information about attorneys. It was founded by journalists Katrina Dewey and Robin Davidson, former editor and former managing editor of the Los Angeles Daily Journal, respectively. Lawdragon will debut its quarterly magazine in October.

Mr. Rosenthal has also been designated as a leader in international trade law in the 2005-2006 edition of Chambers USA: America's Leading Business Lawyers, Who's Who in American Law, and in Who's Who Legal. The independent Chambers USA identifies the top practitioners in more than 30 commercial areas of law, and is based entirely on market research and the recommendations of both general counsel and lawyers in private practice. Who's Who in American Law and Who's Who Legal are directories of America's most notable men and women in the legal profession.
