

Piercing the Corporate Veil

Philip D. Robben

November 1, 2018

Partner Philip Robben co-authored the article, “Piercing the Corporate Veil,” in Practical Law The Journal. The article discusses the doctrine of piercing the corporate veil, particularly in the parent-subsidary context; explains the two primary arguments used to prove piercing claims, the alter ego theory and the agency theory; and examines what parent companies can do to minimize their exposure to the liabilities of their subsidiaries.