

Private Equity and Holding Companies

December 1, 2020

This session explores all areas of consumer protection law that holding company, private equity attorneys, investment management attorneys, general counsel of private equity firms, and other legal advisers to private equity fund sponsors need to watch out for. All aspects of consumer protection and advertising law, including deception and unfairness, promotion and direct marketing, private remedies, privacy and data security, industry self-regulation, and international consumer protection are covered. This session may also be of interest to chief compliance officers and other compliance personnel and operating company attorneys with an interest in consumer protection.
