

The New and Improved CommLaw Monitor

January 23, 2015

You may have noticed in the past few days that we've changed things a little bit. In addition to updating the layout, we've also changed the name from the TelecomLaw Monitor to the CommLaw Monitor. This change is designed to reflect the broader focus of our group and blog beyond "plain old telephone services" to the new era of communications and media. We will continue to provide you with the best content covering all aspects of enforcement, litigation and compliance in the communications space. We've added new capabilities, most notably better support on your mobile device or tablet. Link to us at <http://commlawmonitor.com> and @CommLawMONITOR on Twitter. Don't worry, you don't have to re-register; you will still be subscribed. Thanks for following Kelley Drye's Communications Practice Group.
