

Thinking Strategically about International Trade Compliance

Eric McClafferty

December 19, 2013

Partner Eric McClafferty authored the Thomson Reuters article "Thinking Strategically about International Trade Compliance." The article discusses how companies should make thoughtful and tactical decisions about their international trade compliance program, both in implementation and adaptation. Eric outlines how to choose an effective trade compliance program by looking past generic and minimal programs, assessing internal risk, evaluating competing programs, and paying attention to government agencies.

