Law360 recently published the article, “What to Know About the Latest California Auto-Renewal Law Update,” co-authored by Partner Gonzalo Mon and Special Counsel Beth Chun.

With automatic renewals continuing to be a big priority for state regulators, many companies are working to develop strategies to comply with the growing patchwork of state laws in this area. When they do, they often start by looking at California, since that state has some of the most stringent requirements in the country. California has been a moving target, although that target will soon move again, after Governor Newsom signed a new law that will add more requirements starting in 2025. This article breaks down the scope of the law, express affirmative consent, cancellation, notices, and what this means for businesses.
