

“My nativities are a work of art.”

-Luis Cevallos, Woodworker, Ecuador

In the small village where Luis lives in Ecuador, working with wood is a family tradition passed down through generations. Luis’ father taught him how to carve and his sister taught him how to paint. Using these skills, Luis has been creating these crafts for 14 years. With a large order, he increases his staff with fellow community member artisans, supporting up to 10 families with additional income.
