

A Better Future

Lucina Jeronimo currently assists with packaging and jewelry assembly for UPA in Mexico and is enrolled in a new women's project to learn jewelry-making skills. Her hope is that with the new skills she will be able to work full-time and earn a steady income. She has two teenage children to provide for on her own, as her husband migrated in search of work but has gone missing. She said, "I am a single mother and I have to give my children a better future."
