15TH BELMAR PRO BRINGS

GOOD

VIBES

BY SAMANTHA MATTHEWS
NIGHT & DAY MAGAZINE

The 2018 Monster Belmar Pro, presented by Eastern Lines, hits the surf and sand of Belmar beach between 16th and 18th avenues on Friday, Sept. 7 through Sunday, Sept. 9, with a full weekend of surfing, music and celebrations, a perfect start for locals summer.

BELMAR PRO

An annual event, surfers and fans look forward to the weekend after Labor Day to spend the weekend on the beach catching good vibes and good waves for those in the ocean. Although last year the contest was deemed the Belmar Invitational, this year is its fifteenth year and it's back to the Belmar Pro.

"We decided to go back to the Belmar Pro," said Don Tarrant, owner of Eastern Lines and the event coordinator for the contest. We have Monster as the primary sponsor of the contest this year so it's technically the 2018 Monster Belmar Pro."

Monster Energy Drink joined the Belmar Pro as a sponsor for the first time in 2017 bringing the brand's marketing team and a 40-foot inflatable Monster can to the beach.

"They came on last year as a smaller sponsor and they were really excited with the way the contest went and the response, so they decided to put in some more money this year and go in a little bigger, put a little more into it," explained Tarrant.

The contest is broken up into the following categories: Pro Mens Division sponsored by Fins, Pro Womens Division sponsored by Playa Bowls, Pro Longboard, Pro Masters and the SRH Pro Legends.

The contest brings not only surfers from all over the state, but surfers from all over the country. This year Belmar local and annual competitor Brian Dalton who will compete in the SRH Pro is Legends is featured on the Belmar Pro poster.

"Brian, I've sponsored him at the shop since he was a kid," said Tarrant. Today, he's one of my good friends. He's probably one of the best surfers in Belmar ..."

Another New Jersey surfer who will be competing in the event again this year is Dean Randazzo. "You know he's pretty much the godfather of Pro surfing in New Jersey," said Tarrant.

As in years prior, the contest is far from short of competitors coming from outside the state to check out the East Coast surf.

"And we have surfers pretty much from all over the US," he said. "We have competitors from Hawaii. We have competitors from the Caribbean. And we even have a competitor this year from France."

While competitors from across the country and the Caribbean are common for the contest, this year will be the first time in contest history that a competitor is coming from Europe.

"Yeah so that's kind of cool," said Tarrant. "And they get really good surf in France, but we haven't had anybody from Europe compete in the event before, so that was kind of a little unique," he added with a laugh.

MORE THAN A SURF CONTEST

In addition to plenty of surf and all things good vibes, the Belmar Pro brings about a weekend full of music and parties to celebrate the annual event.

The weekend will kickoff with a party on Friday night at Belmar's Beach Haus Brewery beginning at 8 p.m. The party will include live music by Predator Dub Assassins, raffles and beer specials.

There will be live music during the contest on Saturday and Sunday on the boardwalk beginning around 11 a.m. The official Belmar Pro Party will be held at The Columns in Avon-by-the-Sea on Saturday night also beginning at 8 p.m. Old Bottom Turns will be providing live music at the official party.

Both parties are completely open to the public and not limited to just competitors so feel free to join in on all the fun. The weekend event also includes a Vendor Village for fans and competitors to enjoy.

Coffee Surf Co. is dedicated to "putting adventure in every cup!" with its original location inside Playa Bowls on Ocean Ave. in Belmar and will be on hand during the contest. The Coffee Surf Co. Coffee Truck and Lucy's Lemonade will be at the contest on both Saturday and Sunday.

"I've been involved with the pro since day one with Don," said Barry Peterson, owner of Coffee Surf Co. "We played with our band, Barry and the Penetrators, and I ran the surf shop while organizing events."

This year Peterson looks forward to fueling up everyone at the concert with his coffee truck on hand.

"We've always had some type of involvement in the Pro and we can't wait to bring our cold brew to everyone," he said. "We love the Belmar Pro for its hometown feel and the good vibes of the whole community coming together."

Come together with the community during this year's Belmar Pro and celebrate good vibes, good waves and the ever anticipated start to local summer.

JAMIE BROWN

*will chill your

BY WENDY MCCLURE NIGHT & DAY MAGAZINE

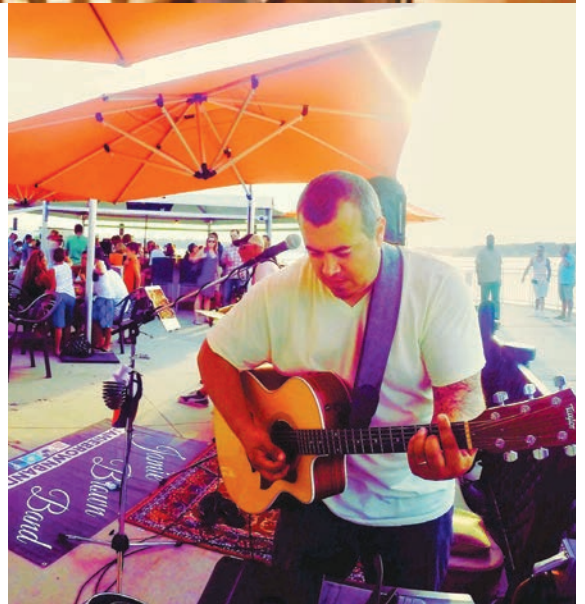

Jamie Brown is your barefoot bar guy. His goal is to give you a laid-back happy hour experience. A solo act since 2002; he is the rock and reggae guy who wants to entertain you while you relax with your friends, having a conversation without screaming over his music.

Brown does about 100 to 150 shows per year mostly with just him and his acoustic guitar. He will play you a version of Tom Petty's "American Girl" like you've never heard before. There are times when he brings in some backup and becomes a trio. He handpicks these players from his own group of musical friends when they may have some extra time on their hands. Joining him onstage are members of "Guns 4 Hire" and "The Phil Engel Band" among others. Brown says there is no competition between him and those in other area bands; it's all for fun.

A family man first, Brown considers playing out a hobby. Instead of fishing or boating he plays music and makes a little money while he's at it. His day job is running a leadership program, so he isn't interested in playing with a full band doing the 10 p.m. to 2 a.m. thing. The schedule he has carved out for himself helps him fit in all the things he loves.

The Jamie Brown Band can be found playing at your favorite beach bar in Monmouth County and is available to do cocktail and dinner hours at weddings or special events. You can find more information at JamieBrownBand.com.

Commercial fishing to family venture

BY SAMANTHA MATTHEWS NIGHT & DAY MAGAZINE

A commercial fisherman by trade, Mike Sarapochillo began his commercial fishing career in Point Pleasant in 2004, and over the span of a decade built his fleet to three commercial fishing boats, distributing and wholesaling, and ultimately taking that hard work and history to a storefront in the community.

WELCOME TO ATLANTIC OFFSHORE FISHERY

According to Sarapochillo, Atlantic Offshore Fishery is very diversified — fishing for scallops, tuna, swordfish, mahi, monkfish, fluke and flounder and distributing and wholesaling to other wholesalers as well as the general public.

“So I decided to put a roof over our head and then take it to the retail side with a kitchen to be able to bring the public a fresher, little bit cheaper product,” he said.

A year and a half ago, Sarapochillo left the ocean to concentrate on managing the fleet and the wholesale business, which he expanded, and built the facility where the fishery remains today on Channel Drive in Point Pleasant Beach.

“We hold 25,000 pounds of live lobsters and crabs,” he said. “So we distribute live lobsters and crabs to other wholesalers and to other restaurants out of this building on top of other fresh, local seafood that we produce.”

This summer the facility opened up its doors as a restaurant as well and the Atlantic Offshore Fishery was born. According to Sarapochillo, the fishery will wholesale whatever is in season for catching and anything else will be brought in from other local wholesalers or fishermen.

FAMILY FISHERY

“At the restaurant we try to cook and serve what we produce at hopefully a little bit better quality for a little bit better price,” he said. The decision to open the restaurant was an outgrowth of the wholesale operation.

Sarapochillo explained that they decided they might as well offer some fish to the public and then see what would come from it.

“Then we found a really good cook who owned a restaurant in town and he approached us with an idea. ‘If you could get me some fresh fish I would be willing to start up a restaurant,’ he said.” For this aspect of the business, he partnered with his family. According to Sarapochillo, his aunt runs the market, his cousin and sister work in the market along with his mother, and his father works at the wholesale alongside him.

“So it just became a big family business and, yeah, we’re excited to expand and excited to keep the customers pleased with local product,” he added.

MARKET MENU

Atlantic Offshore Fishery is open seven days a week from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. for dine-in or take out.

“So we’re planning on staying open seven days a week and the boats fish all year long, so as long as the boats are fishing, we’re going to stay open,” he explained. “Basically we do a lot of specials with what we’re producing more of to try and help the consumer out.” Sarapochillo explained this means if something is in season or there is an abundance of it, they are able to cut some prices and run specials.

The menu at Atlantic Offshore Fishery ranges from soups, salads and platters to sandwiches, po’ boys and tacos.

“My personal favorite dish is the scallop po’ boy,” he shared. “Our signature dishes here are grilled mahi tacos, lobster tacos, our lobster egg rolls are becoming one of our most popular things here.”

Whether dining in or taking out, Atlantic Offshore Fishery is dedicated to providing you with the freshest fish, finest ingredients and affordable prices. While the restaurant doors opened mere months ago, Sarapochillo explained business has been picking up pretty steadily.

For Atlantic Offshore Fishery the future is bright and full of growth.

“We’ll always be looking to expand on the wholesale/restaurant, looking to produce more seating for the local seafood lovers and seafood people out there who want to come any time of the year to have fresh fish,” he said.

The restaurant is currently a very casual establishment and Sarapochillo explains they want to stay with that, while also adding more inside seating and expand in the existing building.

“... I’m a commercial fisherman and we thrive on local New Jersey sustainable fish that we try to produce,” said Sarapochillo. “We don’t believe in anything farm raised and we don’t sell anything that’s farm raised.”

Mueller's Bakery

Where Quality Makes The Difference!

Since 1890 Mueller's has evolved as far as modern baking is concerned, while holding tight to the old-fashioned appeal of yesteryear where service, quality, product and atmosphere exist in a storybook-setting town.

Locals and vacationers alike can vouch for the long-standing traditions of waiting for their Sunday crumb cake, or enjoying their favorite holiday baked goods, year after year.

BEHIND THE BAR AND BACK AT HOME

BY SAMANTHA MATTHEWS NIGHT & DAY MAGAZINE

With over 35 years in the business, Rich Griffith settled in behind the bar at The Salty Whale Guesthouse in his hometown of Manasquan.

BARTENDING BEGINNINGS

Griffith began his bartending career at Leggett's in Manasquan after graduating from college in 1982. After working at Leggett's for 12 years he went to Craig's in Brick for almost 20 years followed by Rella's in Brielle where he spent six years.

Heading back to the town where his career started, Griffith is happy to be back home in the Manasquan community and behind the bar at The Salty Whale.

"Love it here," said Griffith with a smile. "It's close to home, it's bright, airy, lot of fun." Griffith loves bartending and especially loves doing it in the town of Manasquan. "It's my hometown, this is where I grew up," he said. "It's great to be here. I worked in Brick for a lot of years, made a lot of great friends working there, but it's nice to be in Manasquan where you know everybody and it's a lot of people from growing up, friends of the family, children's parents and friends, so that type of thing."

For Griffith bartending is both something that he loves doing as well as a career that has given him the flexibility to be able to be a stay-at-home dad at times when his kids were young and allows him to coach high school sports.

"My favorite part about bartending is probably being out and being with people that I know and the social aspect of it," he said.

CRAFTING COCKTAILS

Griffith enjoys putting martinis together, changing them up and having some fun with the cocktails he crafts. His favorite drink to mix is none other than the traditional iced tea, Long Island Iced Tea.

"... It's easy and the result is usually pretty good, which I think people like," he said. "People don't drink it as much as they used to, it's kind of an old style drink."

Whether you're a martini drinker, love a Long Island Iced Tea or are a beer fanatic, Griffith will craft you up your drink of choice with finesse and a bright smile.
