

Welcome To Fifth Street Presbyterian Church

We gather today to hear God speak in the reading and preaching of His Word. And, we gather to respond to His voice in our songs, prayers, and affirmations. In this ordinary worship of God we find extraordinary grace, encouragement and reason to hope. This corporate worship of God is the most important thing that happens upon the earth and we are delighted to have you with us as we approach the Father in Christ's name by the power of the Holy Spirit.

Words cannot express the gratitude and thanks I have for our "Fifth Street Family" for all the loving kindnesses which have been shown to Robert and me during these difficult days following Joe's death. Actually, I should say Joe's illness and death. As you probably know, Fifth Street always held a special place in Joe's heart. Thanks for sharing with him in that devotion. –Beverly Kanewske

God Loves to make Something out of Nothing. So our Lord God passes by the greatest and highest might of the angels in heaven. He takes the very simplest, plainest, most unlearned, and weakest on the earth. He sets them against the highest wisdom and power of the devil and the world. These are the works of God, for he is a God "who gives life to the dead and calls into existence the things that do not exist" (Rom. 4:17). Such are His nature and His attributes. He proves it with the grain in the field; unless it "falls into the earth and dies," Christ Himself says (John 12:24), "it abides alone." But if it dies, rots, and loses its husk and flour in the earth, it grows roots, blade, and ear (Mark 4:28) and "bears much fruit." In summary, it is God's nature to show His majesty and power through vanity and weakness. He Himself says to Paul (2 Cor. 12:9): "My power is made perfect in weakness." –Martin Luther
