Steve McCullough is the local chairman of the C12 Group, the nation's largest network of Christian CEO peer advisory groups, but he has spent the majority of his almost 30 years in business in the oil industry, with the last 20 in management and executive-level positions. From 2006 until January 2016, Steve was divisional President and COO of EPIC Aviation, a privately held aviation fuel distributorship based in Irving, TX. When he was called to his current line of work last year, Steve left the oil industry to start C12 Lowcountry in Charleston and Savannah, working with area CEOs and business owners to build great businesses for a greater purpose. Steve has a passion for Christ-centered leadership and being a part of a workplace movement for Christ.
