NOTES:

[1] It is difficult to advise you on how much your surrogacy journey will cost. On one hand, intended parents have successfully pursued traditional surrogacy free of charge. On the other hand, an intended mother in another program spent $250,000 on 15 cycles with 8 different gestational carriers and three different agencies and never had a child. These are our best estimates of your costs.

[2] Exhibit numbers are listed for your convenience. They refer to corresponding line items in the Agreement for Services.

[3] IVF charges vary. The initial estimate is for one embryo transfer at some of our most commonly used clinics. On top of this estimate, some intended parents choose to pay per additional transfer.

[4] International intended parents who choose the Standard Match program are not required to purchase primary insurance plans for carriers, as they instead pay higher fees for insured carriers and a fee for the recruitment, evaluation and administration of their carrier's insurance. We collect a $6,000 advance (Exhibit 2a-8) on medical expenses to be used for any unresolved insurance expenses in the event of a denial of coverage. This advance is only used if needed, and is returned if not. As it is simply an advance on some of the potential contingent expenses, it is not separately identified above or below.

[5] Estimates listed in this section which relate to carrier's fees or reimbursements are subject to negotiation with your carrier and her attorney. Those listed are Circle's recommendations. Intended parents in our program should be prepared for charges 10 to 20% above the numbers quoted in the first two pages since travel, second transfers and twins represent common extra charges that can add to this number. To account for these potential additional expenses, we collect a $6,000 advance on travel spread over two payments (Exhibit 1 and 2a) and a $2,000 advance on other possible expenses as part of the initial payment (Exhibits 1-9 and 1-12). This advance is only used if needed, and is returned if not.
