Jerilyn Hogan is an amazing Technology Integration Specialist for the South Glens Falls Central School District in New York.

With the change to Common Core, Mrs. Hogan and her team were inspired to look for resources that could help their teachers reach each of their students at their level.

“Before we had Freckle, teachers found it difficult to teach the content and reach the students who needed extra daily practice at their own level within the standards. Higher achieving students also needed to be pushed beyond what they were learning in class,” Mrs. Hogan explained. “Because of time restraints and the depth of the content, this was very challenging.”

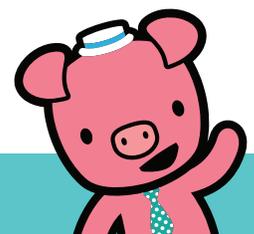

Discovering Freckle

In their search for resources, Freckle stood out from the start.

“From the very beginning,” said Mrs. Hogan, “I liked the way Freckle allowed students to work at their own pace. It gave them meaningful problem-based mathematical problems to reinforce learned skills.”

“Freckle has helped our teachers gain instant data on students. Now our staff knows where to target lessons to address trouble areas and to see what areas students are having success with.”

Helping Students Grow

With Freckle's personalized Math and ELA programs, students have been able to thrive.

Mrs. Hogan says, "Freckle is meaningful to our students because it meets them at their own level. Freckle allows them to practice the material that is needed to succeed and progress. It has helped students grow while also reinforcing their ELA and Math skills."

When students struggle with a question, Freckle automatically provides the help they need. Freckle has built-in tutorial videos and even lets students know which of their classmates can best help them. These features have helped her students become independent learners.

"Students immediately liked the video and 'ask a friend' feature," Mrs. Hogan explained. "This gave students ownership of their learning and the ability to figure out a solution without waiting for teacher availability."

World-Class Education

Kristine Orr, the Assistant Superintendent of Curriculum & Instruction at South Glens Fall Central, describes how more and more teachers are starting to benefit from Freckle.

"We have seen a growing number of teachers using this in math centers," she explained. "This has given students extra time in math that has not happened in the past. Since teachers feel comfortable with the program, they get students on it more!"

We're so proud that South Glens Falls Central School District is a part of the Freckle family! They're doing so much great work to help deliver a world-class education to each of their students.
