Reliability Reports Requested
Most calls to your BBB are pre-purchase inquiries from consumers and businesses seeking reliability reports on area companies. These callers are seeking assurance that the company they are considering spending money with has no unresolved complaints or history of unethical practices in advertising or selling of their products and services on file at the BBB. In late 2008, the BBB enhanced its reporting procedure to include a well-formulated rating system, which generates an "A" through "F" letter grade for each company in its database. Some of the factors include length of time in business, complaint history, proper licensing, and volume of business. This reporting system has been adopted by BBB's nationally in an effort to assist customers and businesses alike in making a well informed pre-purchase decision and promote ethical marketplace behavior.

In 2009, your BBB provided information in response to 2,031,845 inquiries about local companies. Included in this statistic, 205,474 consumers requested we provide them with a listing of Accredited Businesses in a certain industry. Those BBB Accredited Businesses who have elected to display the BBB Online Seal on their website generated 870,148 inquiries. Miscellaneous inquiries such as Spanish reports, general advice reports and agency referrals totaled 6,578.

Complaints Processed
Consumers who want to present a complaint to a company through the BBB often begin by calling. These consumers are provided with instructions for filing their complaint in writing or online.

BBB processed 31,058 written complaints during the year. It should be of interest to both Accredited Businesses and consumers to know that BBB Accredited Businesses had a settlement rate of 98.91% in 2009. The remaining .09% of unresolved complaints represent those filed against firms whose BBB Accreditations were revoked by the Board of Directors. By comparison, Non-BBB Accredited Businesses had a lower resolution rate of 70.70%.

Your BBB also serves as the central service bureau for the AUTO LINE® program in the State of Florida. Staff in this department provide mediation and arbitration services for automobile manufacturing disputes - concentrating on Florida Lemon Law guidelines.

BBB has many fine volunteers who have received training and certification to conduct arbitration hearings held by the BBB offices. In 2009, the BBB conducted 121 arbitrations.
Consumers need to know not only how to recognize and avoid fraud and deception in the marketplace, but also what their rights and responsibilities are as consumers. In a 2007 Princeton Survey, 7 out of 10 consumers say they would be more likely to buy from a company designated a “BBB Accredited Business.”

Our BBB information, investigative reports, consumer alerts and tips on buying wisely are developed to better inform consumers and businesses. BBB proactively disseminates information through a variety of avenues including web alerts, emails, press releases, media interviews, trade shows, and community events.

In 2009, your local BBB generated 772 local media mentions, including stories specific to unethical business practices to topics regarding enhanced BBB reporting procedures and services.

In an effort to bring consumers and Accredited Businesses together, the BBB web site offers a “Request a Quote” service. This allows consumers to specify the service or product they desire from a given business(es) and receive a quote via their selected method (i.e. phone, email, or fax). This service has been utilized 1,957 times in 2009 and continues to grow in popularity.

Consumers may obtain categorical listings of BBB Accredited Businesses in any given industry at no cost. These Accredited Business listings may be requested via telephone or obtained over the web. This service generated 205,474 listings in 2009.

Internet commerce is booming. Yet many people are nervous about actually purchasing goods online. Websites are easy to set up and maintain. Prospective customers struggle to know which online business is legitimate, and which can be trusted? Online Accreditation is the solution to building trust and confidence in today’s marketplace.

Local Accredited Businesses who have elected to display the BBBOnline Seal on their website have generated 870,148 inquiries in 2009.
