'With grit and grace, we survived': Performing arts students adapt to online learning

By: Isa Gutierrez
April 30, 2021

For the past year, the Covid-19 pandemic has forced performing arts students to adjust to online Zoom classes, putting many of the performances on hold. NBC News’ Isa Gutierrez spoke to teachers and students, including Ailey Extension Director Lisa Johnson-Willingham about how they have adapted to learning and teaching remotely.

Watch here: https://www.nbcnews.com/now/video/-with-grit-and-grace-we-survived-as-performing-arts-students-adapt-to-online-learning-111114309755 (Ailey mention @ 1:45 – 3:15)