Dear Stockholder:

I am pleased to provide you with an update on the performance of PharmChem, Inc. (PharmChem) for the year ending December 31, 2013.

As I prepared to write this update, I reviewed the previous letters to stockholders. Generally, I spoke about how PharmChem was dealing with the self-liquidation and complexities of monetizing its last remaining asset -- the PharmChek® Drugs of Abuse Sweat Patch Business.

We have made significant progress on the self-liquidation as we have settled amounts owed to secured and unsecured creditors, and have reached the end of the required record keeping time frame as mandated for federal drug testing contracts.

Clearly, a self-liquidation can take several forms including a sale, wind down or a combination thereof. The Board of Directors continues to be committed to an exit strategy which will maximize stockholders' value. Thus far, our efforts to sell the Sweat Patch Business have been unsuccessful.

PharmChem exited 2013 facing a shift in its customer base from federally directed programs to state-funded initiatives as the emphasis on drugs of abuse testing at the federal level waned. For example federal probation sales have decreased from 45% to just 27% of our total sales.

Our 2013 results, in my opinion, reflect the success we experienced by building upon this shift in our customer base thereby improving financial results and growing market share.

Please note a few of our accomplishments:

1. Over the past several years, the Company has successfully targeted the Sweat Patch Business to the state and local level as drug testing by federal probation has, in our view, become a lower level priority resulting from either change in philosophy, funding, or both.
2. The Company expanded its sales and marketing efforts to focus more closely on state and local agencies where drug testing in general, and the Sweat Patch Business in particular, have demonstrated growth opportunities. The Company began emphasizing professional training, attendance at shows and seminars, and has revamped its web site and related marketing material.

3. As a result of this effort, the Company secured 121 new customers during the past two years.
4. In March 2014, the Company announced it would expand its drug testing panel to include certain so-called “synthetic opiates” – hydrocodone, hydromorphone, oxycodone and oxymorphone. There is no assurance this action will be well received by our customers.
5. Finally, I was very pleased with our financial results. A few highlights are as follows:

- a.) Sales were $1,778,500, an improvement of 8% over 2012.
- b.) Operating income was $130,792, up 132% over 2012's level.
- c.) Year over year, cash and securities increased $105,041.

We've attached summary financial statements for 2013 and 2012.

Again, I am very pleased with our operational and financial performance this past year. Where do we go from here? First, we need to continue our growth and enhance market share in state and local-sponsored testing; second, grow the sales of our current product offering with our newly expanded opiate testing panel; third, focus on continuing our evaluation of strategic alliances that may enable more diverse sales; and fourth, continue our objective to cultivate an exit opportunity.

As mentioned above, we have been unable to successfully sell the Sweat Patch Business—our last remaining asset. We believe this is due to previously discussed issues including provisions in certain contracts that would affect a sale; the small niche market in which the Sweat Patch operates; the heavily-regulated protocols to which the Business is subject; the likelihood that a potential buyer of the Business would have to invest in further research and development to keep pace with current trends and regulatory compliance; and the unavailability of certified laboratories capable of testing the Sweat Patch.

I appreciate your continued support. Future updates will be made as conditions warrant.
