How does House Facks use cookies?
"Cookies" are elements of data that a website can send to your browser and store on your computer. Our cookies do not collect or contain personal information about you or compromise the confidentiality of your personal information. Our system automatically gathers information about the areas you visit on our site. This information is typically used as stored preferences that help you customize your reports. You can choose whether to accept cookies by changing the settings of your browser. You can reset your browser to refuse all cookies, or allow your browser to show you when a cookie is being sent. You can also erase cookies already stored on your computer. If you choose not to accept these cookies or if you erase them, your experience at our site and other web sites may be diminished and some features may not work as intended.

Maintenance of accurate information.
We strive to insure that the information we maintain about you and your company is accurate, current, and complete. We will respond to your requests to correct inaccurate information in a timely manner. If you ever find that your account information is incomplete, inaccurate or not current, you should edit your user account by clicking on that link on the web site or, if appropriate, by contacting House Facks through the "Contact House Facks" link on the web site.

Control of your password
You are responsible for all actions taken with your username and password, including fees. Therefore we do not recommend that you disclose your House Facks password to anyone. If you choose to share your username and password, you are responsible for all actions taken with your username and password and may be subject to legally binding actions taken on your behalf. Therefore, if your password has been compromised for any reason, you should immediately change your password through the "Edit my user account" link.

Security
House Facks uses industry standard practices to safeguard the confidentiality of your personal identifiable information, including "firewalls". House Facks treats data as an asset that must be protected against loss and unauthorized access. We employ various security techniques to protect such data from unauthorized access by users inside and outside the company. However, "perfect security" does not exist on the Internet.
