

Breaking the silence: Empowering minds through mental health awareness and advocacy

Ash Shishodia*

Medical Director and Consultant Psychiatrist, Thrive Wellbeing Centre, Dubai UAE

Correspondence to: Shishodia A, Medical Director and Consultant Psychiatrist, Thrive Wellbeing Centre, Dubai UAE, E-mail: ashokshishodia@yahoo.co.uk

Received: June 18, 2025; Manuscript No: JPPC-25-1168; Editor Assigned: June 20, 2025; PreQc No: JPPC-25-1168 (PQ); Reviewed: July 03, 2025; Revised: July 10, 2025; Manuscript No: JPPC-25-1168 (R); Published: July 28, 2025

Citation: Shishodia A (2025). Breaking the silence: Empowering minds through mental health awareness and advocacy. J. Psychol. Psychiatr. Vol.1 Iss.1, July (2025), pp:2.

Copyright: Shishodia A 2025. This is an open-access article distributed under the terms of the Creative Commons Attribution License, which permits unrestricted use, distribution, and reproduction in any medium, provided the original author and source are credited.

DESCRIPTION

Mental health continues to be a critical but often overlooked dimension of overall well-being [1]. This article, Breaking the Silence, aims to foster open conversations, reduce stigma, and promote mental health literacy across diverse communities. By bringing together psychologists, educators, policymakers, and lived-experience advocates, the event emphasizes the importance of early intervention, access to mental health services, and the role of community in supporting individuals facing mental health challenges [2-3]. Mental health disorders are among the leading causes of disability worldwide, yet stigma, lack of awareness, and limited access to care remain persistent barriers to treatment. Community-based mental health awareness programs play a pivotal role in addressing these gaps by educating the public, reducing stigma, and encouraging early intervention [4]. This article, Breaking the Silence, was designed to raise awareness, promote mental well-being, and provide practical resources to empower individuals and communities. A total of 326 participants attended the event (58% in-person, 42% online). Pre-event surveys showed that 63% had limited understanding of common mental disorders and 71% held at least one stigmatizing belief. Post-event surveys indicated a 48% increase in mental health literacy and a 60% improvement in willingness to seek help or support others [5]. Qualitative responses highlighted increased empathy, a better understanding of mental health resources, and a desire for continued community engagement. These findings suggest that targeted awareness programs significantly improve public perception and knowledge of mental health.

CONCLUSION

The Breaking the Silence event effectively enhanced mental health awareness, reduced stigma, and empowered participants with actionable tools. Community-based mental health programs, when inclusive and evidence-informed, can play a transformative role in changing societal attitudes. Future programs should consider longitudinal follow-up to evaluate sustained behavioral changes and expand outreach to rural and underserved populations. Moreover, integrating culturally sensitive approaches and collaborating with local stakeholders can further strengthen the impact of such initiatives. Tailoring content to the specific needs of different demographic groups—such as youth, elderly, or marginalized communities—can enhance engagement and relevance. Leveraging digital platforms may also improve accessibility, especially in regions with limited mental health infrastructure. Ultimately, sustained investment in community education, early intervention, and mental health literacy is essential to build resilient and supportive environments that prioritize psychological well-being for all.

References

1. Corrigan PW, Watson AC. Understanding the impact of stigma on people with mental illness. J. Psychiatry. 2002 ; 1(1):16.
2. World Health Organization. World mental health report: Transforming mental health for all. World Health Organization; 2022 Jun 16.
3. Patel V, Saxena S, Lund C, Thornicroft G, Baingana F, et.al. The Lancet Commission on global mental health and sustainable development. The lancet. 2018 ; 392(10157):1553-98.
4. Pyles M. Mental health education in the media: an overview of how to effectively communicate young adult mental health information via social media (Doctoral dissertation).
5. Ventriglio A, Torales J, Castaldelli-Maia JM, De Berardis D, Bhugra D. Urbanization and emerging mental health issues. CNS spectrums. 2021 ; 26(1):43-50.