

Connected Nation: Partnering for Progress in 2025

It's been a pivotal year for everyone working to close the Digital Divide.

From delays in Broadband, Equity, Access, and Deployment (BEAD) program funding to major shifts across the Digital Empowerment landscape, we've continued to adapt, collaborate, and drive progress nationwide. Here's how:

AI Literacy Resource Hub

Our experts developed free guides and tools to help people navigate AI in their daily lives and workplaces. This evolving resource will continue to grow through ongoing input from our partners.

State Broadband Offices

From Puerto Rico to Massachusetts, our teams are helping state and territory broadband leaders develop data-driven plans, navigate BEAD and policy changes, and strengthen broadband mapping and tracking. info@connectednation.org

BEAD Tracker

This dashboard compiles and aggregates data directly from state-published BEAD final proposals. It's an easy, transparent way for leaders, journalists, and stakeholders to track how BEAD funds are being allocated. Bead Tracker

Digital Skills Training

We've trained 50,000+ adults in essential digital skills through two of our newest programs—Teens Teach Tech, powered by AT&T, and the Digital Literacy and Learning program.

Teens Teach Tech, powered by AT&T, is unique: teens share digital skills with older adults through intergenerational workshops. Our Digital Literacy and Learning program, led by Connected Nation staff, is offered both in-person and virtually.

Both programs are offered at no cost to the communities we serve.

Everyone Belongs®

That's just a glimpse of what we've accomplished in 2025. We're now seeking additional strategic partners to accelerate this work as we head into 2026—our 25th anniversary year.

Join us in our mission to improve lives by expanding the access, adoption, and use of high-speed internet (broadband) and its related technologies.
