Connected Nation (CN) is committed to empowering communities and their residents with the power of broadband and its related technologies. Through its digital skills training, career readiness, and job placement opportunities, CN is dedicated to providing training opportunities for those who are interested in adopting and using technology more effectively (disadvantaged families, new technology adopters, job seekers, veterans, military spouses, etc.).

To advance digital literacy across America, CN teamed up with AT&T's Connected Learning Program to offer in-person and virtual digital skills training workshops for the digital empowerment of residents. CN partnered with local community organizations to conduct 2,042 training sessions in 15 states. CN is proud to have trained 26,265 adults on digital skills and eager to offer more opportunities in 2026.

What type of community organizations can participate?

Agencies or organizations that provide services to local residents; community organizations; family resource centers; non- profit organizations; places of worship; government agencies; social service providers, and others.

Guidelines:

Organizations work with CN staff to select and schedule workshops, assign a point of contact to assist with logistics planning and facilitation, support/identify and secure a venue for in-person training.

Training capacity depends on the space. The venue must have adequate broadband service and accommodation for 10-plus participants. All virtual classes will be conducted via Zoom – no venue required for virtual training unless participants don't have access to adequate broadband services.

Organizations are responsible for local outreach efforts within their community to fill the seats for the workshops. CN provides electronic marketing materials and support messaging via various media channels.

Participants are encouraged to register in advance of the training. A unique link to the registration page will be provided by CN after workshops have been scheduled. Participants will receive a certificate of completion after they finish training and complete a survey.

How to participate:

▶ Step One. Confirm your organization's desire to participate by filling out and submitting the 'Interest Form' via the following link: connectednation.org/ programs/digital-literacy-learning

▶ Step Two. Work with CN staff to confirm the training date, training type, etc.

▶ Step Three. Marketing packages will be distributed to organization after workshops have been scheduled. The organization can then begin outreach to fill their seats for the event.

▶ Step Four. Have interested participants register (Via unique link to be provided on each organization's marketing materials).

▶ Step Five. Participants to attend workshops led by a CN staff and take AT&T survey when finished.

▶ Step Six. Participants will receive a certificate of completion.
