There is a special place in Hell for all men and women who think it's funny to rape some 7-year-old girl's avatar in an online virtual world developed for kids. Yes, that happened. Roblox, a hugely popular online game for children, was hacked by an individual that subverted the game's security systems in order to possess personalized animations appear. This enabled two male avatars to gang rape a new girl's avatar onto a playground in one of the Roblox games.

The business has now issued an apology to the victim and its own community and says it has ascertained the way the hacker was able to recapture its own system so that it can prevent future incidents. Mom of this kid, whose avatar was that the casualty of the in-game sexual assault, was nearby when the episode took place. She says her child showed her what was happening on the monitor and she took the device away, luckily shielding her daughter from seeing most of the experience. The mother then captured screen shots of the event so as to warn the others.

Roblox's mission will be to inspire imagination which is our obligation to give a safe and civil platform for play. As safety is the top priority -- we now have robust strategies in place to secure our users and platform. This includes automated technology to track and track all communication between our players together with a large team of moderators who work round the clock to assess all the content uploaded to some match and investigate any improper activity. We provide parental controls to enable parents to produce the most suitable experience for their child, and also we provide individual users with protective tools, like the means to block another player.

The episode involved one bad actor which was able to subvert our protective systems and exploit one instance of a game running on a single server. We have zero tolerance with this particular behaviour and also we took immediate action to identify just how they created the offending action and put safeguards in place to block it from happening again. Additionally, the offender was identified and permanently barred from the platform. Our job on safety is unlimited and we are dedicated to ensuring that one individual doesn't enter the way of this millions of children who come to Roblox to play, make, and imagine.

The time of the episode is particularly notable for its children' gaming platform, which has more than 60 million daily active users and is currently increasing as much as $150 million to grow its own company. The company has been flying under the radar for years, while quietly amassing a massive crowd of both players and developers who build its virtual worlds. Roblox recently stated that it expects to cover its content founders $70 million in 2018, which is twice that of this past year.

Roblox includes a number of integrated controls to safeguard against bad behaviour, including a content filter and also a system which has moderators reviewing video, images, and sound tracks until they may be uploaded to Roblox's site. It also offers parental controls which let parents decide who can chat with their children, or perhaps the ability to show to chat off. And parents may restrict children under 13 from getting anything but a curated list of matches that are downloadable.
