ANNUAL REPORT 2016
When Tashawn came to his parents at age 2 1/2, the biggest thing he had going for him was his killer smile. Born at 27 weeks gestation and diagnosed with cerebral palsy, he’d been in and out of three foster homes and couldn’t sit up or roll over. Within six weeks at his new home, his language skills exploded, and he began to sit up and commando crawl. A fitted wheelchair on his third birthday encouraged more independence and opened his world for full exploration.

Today 11-year-old Tashawn pushes his limits without fear. He wants to try everything! He loves bodysurfing the ocean waves at the beach and riding the roller coasters at FOCUS Six Flags Day. His favorite FOCUS week is at Camp TEAM where he swims, golfs, and competes in relays. He’s pictured on the cover with his favorite counselor, Tori Chimberoff.

He’s becoming more self-aware and learning what he needs to do to be successful, Allison says. He’s decided on his own to return to fifth grade this fall to gain a little more maturity before going to middle school. His mom believes this decision is a mark of his strong character. In fact, she tells how he uses his sensitive heart and powerful voice to stand up for friends with challenges who cannot speak.

“Tashawn is the most inquisitive child,” says his mother Allison. “He’s just so smart!”

Tashawn’s younger sister Alissa really looks up to him, Allison says. Together they’ve modeled in the FOCUS Fashion Show and enjoyed the Valentine and Halloween events for Fragile Kids. Alissa was so excited that she was old enough to go to FOCUS Camp Hollywood with Ta this summer that she skipped her beloved gymnastics classes for the week.

Allison sees big things, including college, in Tashawn’s future. Ta himself wants to be an actor, and his mom admits that acting might fit a young man whose personality and smile are bigger than life. “We tell him he can do anything! He may need adaptations, but we’ll figure it out.”

When Allison told Tashawn that FOCUS was going to feature him in this annual report, he said, “I am a star!” He is, indeed, a star! Thank you for helping this star achieve his dreams.
