

“Starlight”

Take a look out your windowpane
See the stars take their usual shape
It's so rare in our lives these days
To have one thing that always stays the same

Stuck in the well of your worn out dreams
You get the feeling your world is falling apart at the seams

When the dark starts creeping in and you cannot find a friend
Look up at the stars and maybe then you'll see
That no matter where you are you will never be alone
Even in your darkest hour the starlight will always lead you home

Changes form where no one can see
What we are now and what we could be
It's never easy to admit
It's harder to fix it than to fake it

Stuck in the well of your worn out dreams
You get the feeling your world is falling apart at the seams

When the dark starts creeping in and you cannot find a friend
Look up at the stars and maybe then you'll see
That no matter where you are you will never be alone
Even in your darkest hour the starlight will always lead you home

No matter where you are you will never be alone
Even in your darkest hour the starlight will always lead you home

When the dark starts creeping in and you cannot find a friend
Look up at the stars and maybe then you'll see
That no matter where you are you will never be alone
Even in your darkest hour the starlight will always lead you home
Even in your darkest hour the starlight will always lead you home