

“When the Music Starts to Fade”

I used to think my life was just like the movies

Where everything would go just the way I planned

Until I found out that life ain't no show

And you don't know a damn thing until you know

When the music starts to fade and the credits roll away

Wish I could just press slow motion or replay

Because I've been here before and I thought that love was more

Than just a fairytale bought and sold in stores

When all your dreams are crushed and not a soul left you can trust

You know that it's all over when the music starts to fade

Lovers like you are a dying breed

You dug a hole into my heart and sewed the seed

But the storybook never came for you and me

Now there's the ending no one ever wants to see

When the music starts to fade and the credits roll away

Wish I could just press slow motion or replay

Because I've been here before and I thought that love was more

Than just a fairytale bought and sold in stores

When all your dreams are crushed and not a soul left you can trust

You know that it's all over when the music starts to fade

You know that it's all over when the music starts to fade
