

take me down to where the water's running'
our minds were made like a wishing well it was a warm night and a full moon coming hide the evidence, you're gonna catch hell i've been scared for 14 days and every room in here is haunted but we put a little light love in the corner because love was all we wanted i see your water deeper than you know your universe and gently tumbling soul leaves in your garden stir and bloom your body with a heart of gold where nothing stays and nothing comes too soon

our minds were made like a wishing well
hide the evidence, you're gonna catch hell
and every room in here is haunted

wait and then your words come out to roam watching as the life moves through our home leaving your armor with no trace the dawn it breaks the silent sky and only leaves the light across your face

our minds were made like a wishing well
hide the evidence, you're gonna catch hell
and every room in here is haunted
because love was all we wanted
